

Problem Statement

An efficient personalized restock tracker or calendar doesn't exist.

Details

While there are some generic to-do list apps, calendars, and reminder apps, there are none specifically cater to the unique needs of managing household supplies and scheduled refills. Users can struggle with considering when items will run out or need to be replaced, keeping track of how long its been since they purchased a household good, or knowing when something has expired.